

The Sally Anne test is a psychological test originally conceived by Daniel Dennett used in developmental psychology to measure a persons social cognitive ability to attribute false beliefs to others.

In the above sentence count how many words are there?

The sentence contains 31 words.